

FREE-MOTION LAZY EIGHTS

CHRISTINA CAMELI

- Lazy Eights work in many spaces as a free-motion filler.
- You can work this design side to side or up and down: choose whichever feels more natural for you.
- Keep the loop of the lazy eight pointing right at the edge of the space you are filling, and the "legs" of the shape coming off at the same angle on either side. This will keep the line of lazy eights from leaning.
- If you need to practice keeping your loops straight against the edge, try making only half the design (the top or bottom half) at a time. Focusing on putting the loops on only one side of the design at a time can help you develop muscle memory for design.
